Complete this form to report changes that have occurred since filing your 2021-22 FAFSA. If clarification of your situation is necessary, additional information or documentation may be requested. You must provide all requested documentation. Failure to support your circumstances with evidence will result in your appeal being denied. Submission of this appeal doesn't guarantee a favorable change in your financial aid eligibility.

What is a Reduction of Income (ROI)?

A family's 2019 total income is used to determine eligibility for a student's financial need on the 2021-2022 FAFSA. However, there may be circumstances that could drastically change a family's financial situation. In such cases, we may use your family's 2020 income or expected 2021 income to determine your Pell Grant Eligibility calculation.

INCOME MUST HAVE DECREASED BY 10% FOR THIS APPEAL TO BE CONSIDERED FOR REVIEW. Your 2021-2022 FAFSA must be on file and completed before your ROI can be reviewed. Please Note: ROI will only be processed if reduction changes your eligibility for Title IV.

IMPORTANT: A reduction in income request will not be considered for the following situations: (1) high consumer debt, (2) home mortgage expenses, and (3) car payments/expenses. Also, you must be unemployed for at least 6 months before we will consider a request for reduction of income due to loss of employment.
